MR. DELANO'S COMMITTEE PREPARING TO REPORT.

THE SECRERARY THE LAST WITNESS. PREVALENCE OF SMITHS IN THE INTERIOR DEPART-MENT-THE LAST WITNESSES-MR. WELSH RE-GARDS THE INVESTIGATION & SILLY PARCE. [BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUDE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 .- The Delano Commissioners to investigate charges of fraud against the Indian service, in connection with the Red Cloud Agency, have closed their examination. It was fitting that the Secretary should be his own last witness and dose the farce with his own adroit statement. At the on to-day another member of the Smith family was gamined, but with little satisfaction. He is of the anctimonious order, and believes in the present Chrising process of governing the Indians and in fat acts. His name is Frank H. Smith, and he is a mber of the present Board of Indian Commissioners. His name was conspicuous in the District Ring frauds, wanted as a witness before the District Comnittee he was conveniently absent in the West Christianthing the Indians. It was he who saw a herd beef cattle for the use of the military, much poorer and in worse condition than the cattle furnished the Indians, when in reality it is reported that the cattle were berrowed from the Indians for a purpose and again. The Smith families should not be confused. There are three of them, and much believes in the civilizing policy. One of them is mentioned above. Another is Commissioner of Indian Affairs, who takes upon himself much credit for the civilization at which the Indians have arrived. The Interior Department Smith is the Solicitor, whose duty it to expound the law in connection with Indian matters. Mr. Delane was before the Commissioners nearly an bour. He used the same concise language and agreeable nner that characterized him Congress, and he seemed to know what the Interior Department was. He gave an unusually clear exposition of the different bureaus and their duties, but he didn't know anything about Indian affairs. He was especially good natured and genial, and it must be confessed that yiewing the case from his side, he made a very good witness. His want of knowledge was so doubt an assistance to him. He said he had told the President that he wanted to be relieved of the Indian sureau, but it is remembered that when it was proposed to transfer it to the War Department, Mr. Delano was against it. The Secretary did many things pro forms, or, in the language of ex-Secretary Richardson, "as a matter of routine." He had no special knowledge of the Indian Bureau, which was simply one in a large Department. He had little to do with it, except when matters regarding it were brought to his attention. Ho was rather sharply questioned by Mr. Faulkner in regard to certain payments ordered by him in cases which had been reported on as fraudulent by the Indian Commissioners. He said, when matters came to him from the Beard that involved points of law, they were always submitted to Mr. Smith, the Solicitor, and his opinion was followed. He presumed it so to his action when charges of fraud were preferred, and he answered that in every case (and he named several) that had come to his notice, he had ordered and had a thorough investigation; that the report of Samuel Walker was kept from him until it had gone to outside parties; and he had finally appointed the Hare

Prof. Marsh was offered an opportunity to question Mr. Delano, but declined it.

Gen. Cowen, the Assistant Secretary, who was present, was asked a few questions in regard to ordering, while acting Secretary, the payment of certain accounts, but gave the same reason as Mr. Delano did, namely, the opinion of Smith. The preference of the Interior Department for the name of Smith is not so much to be wondered at. The Commissioners have decided not to go to Phila celphia to question Mr. Welsh, for the reason that he will not indicate whether he will come before them or not. As they have no power to enforce the attendance of a witness, this is probably the reason why he will not estify. He regards the whole thing as a silly farce. The Commissioners are to-night engaged in discussing what will be the scope of their report, and will to-mor-new review the evidence for the purpose of comparing views and determining what points of the report can be

POSSIBLE ABDUCTION IN GREENWICH-ST. DISAPPRARANCE OF A LITTLE BOY-THE MOTHER'S

BELIEF THAT HE HAS BEEN STOLEN. On Thursday evening a general alarm was sent out from Police Headquarters for the officers in all the precincts to look out for Joseph Sullivan, a child 3½ years old, who had been missing since the preceding afternoon from the residence of his father, Dennis Sullivan, at No. 412 Greenwich-et. The child had been in the nabit of running around the block at all hours of the day, and playing with the children of the neighbor-hood; but he was no sooner missed than the mother became convinced that he had been ab-ducted. The police hold to the opinion that he had wandered to the neighboring piers of the North River, and had failen in and been drowned—s kind of accident which often occurs among children residing in the vicinity of the North and East Rivers. This belief is strengthened in the minds of the officers of the precinct in which the child lived from the apparent ab nce of motive on the part of any person to abduct the

A reporter of THE TRIBUNE called upon the father yes terday, and he said that he did not believe that he had on enemy in the world; that he had no reason for believing that his little son had been stolen, and had only heard from a neighbor that a dark-faced man had been seen talking to the child. It was not an unusual been seen talking to the child. It was not an unusual thing for strangers to speak to the boy, as he was attractive in appearance. The child had come down stairs about 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday, to play on the doorstep. Although he was well known in the neighborhood not one of the many persons who were usually in the vicinity at that bour of the day recollect having seen him. The father said he had alopted every means that he could think of to find the child. He thought that if he had wandered off with others toward the river some person who knew him would have seen him. The child was fat, had a round face, large gray eyes, small mouth, short nose, with a small mark in the center, wore a gingham apron with a collar trimmed with white, green plaid dress, red fiannel shirt, and boots with caps on the toes.

RECORD OF ROBBERIES AND THEFTS. Officer Larkin of the Eighth Precinct was informed about 2 a. m. yesterday that burglars were at work in the store of Julius Klamke, dealer in fure, at No. 174 South Fifth-ave. On examination the officer found that an entrance had been gained by the rear, which had been forced. On reaching the premises he found that a quantity of furs had been packed up, ready for removal, and soon after arrested Frank Collette, age 27 years, who had secreted himself. The officer also und several burglars' tools on the premises. Collette had a companion in the work, who escaped. At the Washington Place Police Court yesterday Collette was held for examination. The tailor's store of J. F. Buschman & Son, at No. 327 troome-st., was robbed of six remnants of cloth, valued at $175, on Thursday evening, by sneak thieves. Reno Colanzee of No. 101 Crosby-st. loaned a handorgan to a young man for the purpose of traveling through the country. On Thursday the young man returned with the organ, but, during the night, with a quantity of clothing and a wallet containing $6, he property of Colanzes.

Bernard Gormely of No. 237 East Twenty-ninth-st. got on to a Second-ave. car at Yorkville on Thursday evening, and, while riding down town, was robbed of his pocketbook containing $280. H. Nelson of No. 192 Grand-st., loan broker, reported H. Hannah Lemman and Louisa Reed, servants employed by William A. Brush of No. 33 Hanson-place, Brooklyn, were committed by Justice Morse, yesterday, for examination on a charge of having stolen $158 worth of wearing apparel belonging to Mrs. Brush, who was absent from the city.

William Dean, an office boy employed in Kenward Buxton's law office, at No. 44 Court-st., Brooklyn, was committed by Justice Morse, yesterday, for examination on a charge of having stoles $200 out of $900 which had been intrusted to him to put in the Mechanics' Bank on June 5. He managed to evade arrest until Thursday, when he was found by Detective Williams at Bath. He confessed his guilt, and said that ho had spent part of the money and lost the rest.

On Monday evening last William Ritts, residing near Foster's Meadow in the town of Jamaica, Long Island, in company with three friends, while on the way home from East New-York was stopped on the turnpike near Richmond Hill by William Alienburg, John Lowery, Barney Daley, and William Connell, who, after robbing Ritts of $7.50, took possession of the horse and wagon and drove off. The robbers left the horse and wagon standing in the road near the toll-gate at West Jamaica. Lowery and Daly, who were arrested on the following morning, were arraigned yesterday before Justice Bennett at Jamaica and held to await the action of the Grand Jury. The other men have not yet been arrested. They belong to what is known as "the Jamaica gang," and are well known to the authorities.

THE HUDSON RIVER TUNNEL LITIGATION. The counsel for the Hudson River Tunnel Company on Aug. 31 moved for an order, before Chancellor Runyon of New-Jersey, to show cause why the injunction against the Company should not be dissolved. At the hearing yesterday Henry S. White and ex-Chan-cellor Williamson appeared for the Tunnel Company, and Attorney-General Vanatta for the Delaware, Lacka-wanna and Western Railroad Company. Mr. White moved to have the injunction dissolved on the ground that the Tunnel Company was incorporated under the General Railroad incorporated under the General Railroad law; that the act of 1874 recognized the Company's existence as a railroad corporation; that the existing corporation had the right to condemn what land it needed, and the railroad company could only object to the taking of what railroad company could only object to the taking of what land it owned, and not to lands under water owned by the State; that the Company only wanted a title to the land as a right of way, and would pay a reasonable sum of money as compensation for any land taken. Attorney-General Vanatta argued that the General Railroad law did not authorize the Tunnel Company's franchise, and gave no power to take State lands under water by condemnation, and that the lands sought to be condemned were already in use by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad. Ex-Chancellor Williamson contended that the State could not part with the right of eminent domain, and that by the General Railroad law communication could be established with other States. The Chancellor reserved his decision.

ANOTHER THEATRICAL INJUNCTION. Judge Curtis has decided the motion in the suit of Thomas H. French and the Kiralfys against Connolly and Pillet, by continuing the injunction against the latter, restraining them from playing "Around the World in Eighty Days." He decides that the defendants derived their play from the play of Jules Verne and Adolph D'Eunery, and not merely from the published book, and that herefore their rights are wholly subordinate to those of the legitimate assignees of Verne and D'Ennery.

and George Clarke, were arraigned, charged with being engaged in the game of fare, at No. 5 Park-place, con-trary to law, and with all the implements of gambling exposed on the tables in the room. Furniture of the value of $1,500 was seized by the police at the time of the arrests. Mayer, the dealer, was held in $2,000. The others were held a short time for disorderly conduct. Judge Wandell directed that the furniture should be restored to the responsible owner.

Among those present were Commodore Vander-bilt, President, and J. H. Rutter, General Freight Agent of the New-York Central; Mesers. Wadaworth and Vilas of the Erie; Mesars. Newell and Gray of the Lake Shore; Mr. Crampton of the Great Western ; Thomas A. Scott A. J. Cassatt, and F. Thomson of the Pennsylvania Messrs. J. F. Joy, Strong, and Wheeler of the Michigan Central; Messrs. McCullough and Stewart of the Pittsburgh and Fort Wayne. It was stated by the Secretary of the meeting that no business of general interest was transacted, and no new agreements entered into, but old agreements were ratified and renewed. He said that nothing was done in regard to the question of the pooling of the earnings of competitive roads, and the subjects discussed were only of interest to the rairroad officials, while the agreements brought up had already been published.

POLICE BOARD MEASURES. At a meeting of the Board of Police yesterday, the application of the manager of the Grand Opera House for the loan of gambling implements, to be used in the production of the play of "Red and Black," was refused. The Mayor referred to the Police Board a con munication from the Consul of Italy, relative to the law suppressing the playing of instruments in the public streets by children. Superintendent Walling reported that as soon as the letter was received he had sent out a general alarm to the different police stations, calling the attention of the captains to the general order issued in 1874 on the subject. A letter from several citizens in the upper part of the city, complaining that policy officers entered private grounds and drove cattle to the pound at Harlem River, where the poundmaster illegally charged a fee of $2 per head, was referred to the Superintendent. MR. BEECHER AVERSE TO A PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION TWIN MOUNTAIN HOUSE, N. H., Sept. 13. GENTLEMEN: The letter of a "committee appointed in schalf of a large number of the clergy and other citizens of Brooklyn," has just been received, and I hasten to

I cannot be indifferent to the kindness it is proposed to show me on my return home from the mountains to Brooklyn. So much of my life has been spent there, the Brooklyn. So much of my life has been spent there, the things dearest to me being centered there, my experience in that notable city as a pastor and preacher during the life-time of a whole generation, make the approval and affection of my fellow-citizens very dear to me. That the members of my own flock should greet my return cordially was to be expected, after the heroic conduct of the past two years—an example which has given a new glory to church-life throughout Christendom. But that my fellow-citizens not belonging to Plymouth Church, from among all parties and of different sects, should desire to express their confidence and affection is peculiarly gratifying—and it is with regret that I am obliged to differ with you on the desirableness of such a movement. It would tend to keep alive feelings that ought to subside, to renew discussions of painful public transactions which should never have had existence, and which it were well, both for public and private good, to have removed, if not to forgettainess at least to obscurity. Too many hearts yet bleed, too much sorrow and scorching excitement has failen upon kind and sympathizing hearts, to make it wise to renew public demonstrations which might be misinterpreted, and which might excite animosities which overy good citizen should seek to heal.

I ask that I may be allowed to take my place again as seek to heal.

I ask that I may be allowed to take my place again as a citizen in the exercise of my life-long vocation. I am deeply and gratefully sensible of the kindness and honor which you have done me by your action. But that the unwholesome excitement of the past year may not be prolonged, I trust that you will allow me to accept your honorable intentions rather than any public demonstration.

With sentiments of high esteem, I am gratefully yours,
HERRY WARD BRECHER.

IMPORTANT TO

ALL WHO GIVE OR NEED CREDIT!

From The Chronicle, New Fork, Sept. 9, 1875.

By far the greater portion of the country's business is, and ever must be, done on credit. In very many instances it is wise and prefitable for capital to lend its aid to men who have wise and prefitable for capital to lend its aid to men who have no other security to give than their acknowledged business ability and integrity. In such cases, the only peril of the creditor is the chance of the borrower's death. This peril may be wholly and cheaply avoided by means of term life insurance, i. e., a life insurance for such length of time only as the credit is to be extended. In other instances, a man, to carry to completion some desirable enterprise, or to be able to undertake some promising venture, mortgages his property or buys property subject to a mortgage. If he lives a few years, paytake some promising venture, mortgages an a property of opporance property subject to a mortgage. If he lives a few years, payment of the debt is sure; but if he die, the foreclosure of the mortgage will bring ruin to his family. Term life insurance in such a case, is the easy and economical refuge of the debtor; and we are glad to note that the stanch and trusted Brooklya Life Insurance Co. of this city is making a specialty of this plan, and offering, by means of it, all that is in most cases desirable in life insurance. Both debtors and creditors should acquaint themselves with the merits and avail themselves

THE BROOKLYN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY also indorses on all participating policies a guaranteed amoust of surrender value, making them the best of collateral for loans and business transactions.

Parties desiring information as to the Plans, or wanting to represent the Company as Agents in any city, town or county, should address the Company, Nos. 320 and 322 Broadway. New York City.
